CAA SK TO LAUNCH RIDE ASSIST, A NEW PROGRAM TO HELP MEMBERS WITH THEIR DRIVING SAFETY

This fall, CAA Saskatchewan will launch Ride Assist as part of CAA's Roadside Assistance service. Ride Assist will help CAA Members that are unable to personally drive their vehicle home. Currently, CAA's Roadside Assistance service is used when the Member is stranded due to vehicle breakdown, road conditions, etc.

The reasons a Member may require Ride Assist are varied, but may include:

- 1) Personal Health Issues
- 2) Prescription eyewear broken/lost or related vision concerns
- 3) Physical Impairment

To request Ride Assist, CAA Members can rely on the same process used to access CAA Roadside Assistance which is by phone: 1.800.222.4357, online through their CAA membership account, or via CAA's mobile app.

CAA Members will be driven home while their vehicle is in tow. This service, available to CAA Members only, can be accessed once per calendar year and will be considered as a roadside assistance service call on the Member's account. It will be limited to the restrictions as per their CAA membership level and all regular conditions will apply.

According to Fred Titanich, President & CEO, CAA Saskatchewan, "Advocacy and safety for driver and road safety has always been a priority at our automobile club. We have added Ride Assist as a value-added benefit for our Members; for their safety and for the safety of other drivers on the road."
